Cornell Company Victim of Bandits In New York

Seven Gunmen Raid Cornell Steamboat Company Office in New York Half Hour After Payroll Arrives—Escape With $10,000 in Waiting Automobile.

Half an hour after an armored express company car had delivered a $15,000 payroll at the Cornell Steamboat Company on Pier 33, North River, foot of Fifty-third street, Thursday, seven automobile robbers raided the offices, held off twelve men and two frightened women with pistols and escaped with $10,000. They missed $5,000 which had been paid to employees a few minutes before their arrival. Police recalled that this was the second time in a week that robbers had apparently trailed armored cars, delaying their rush until the money was unprotected.

Aloysius Schaefer, of 859 Halsey street, Brooklyn, cashier at the Cornell Steamboat Company, had finished paying off the first squads of employees and, with Miss Louise Butch, of 483 Columbus avenue, his 19-year-old assistant, was filling pay envelopes for 250 more men due an hour later.

Seven young men appeared in a limousine and drew up inside the pier arch. Michael O'Connor, an assistant city harbor master employed as a guard, stepped out of his office to question the newcomers when two men leaped from the limousine with automatic pistols and forced him back into his quarters. A man using a public telephone was spied in an adjoining booth, and a third occupant of the car pulled him out headlong in the middle of his conversation, and drove him in with O'Connor.

Leaving the first two of the band to watch O'Connor and the stranger, the other five ran upstairs on tiptoe to the second floor, which was partitioned off into a row of offices. Bursting into the main room of the Cornell Steamboat Company, they surprised eight employees who had just been paid. Waving pistols to and fro, the raiders backed the men into a corner, hands in the air. Miss Anna Higgins, telephone operator sitting at her switchboard nearby, was gruffly commanded to join them.

Find Paymaster at Work. Telling off three more men to take care of the nine men prisoners, the leader of the band took the seventh robber with him and ran into the next office, where Schaefer and Miss Butch had been sorting the pay envelopes.

"Up with 'em!" and the cashier and his assistant turned to look down two pistol barrels and shot up their hands. The younger robber after a second look at Miss Butch turned sympathetic and said to her: "Don't get frightened, sister. You can put your hands down. We won't hurt you."

Miss Butch sank relieved into a chair and watched the men back Schaefer to the far wall. The pair became suspicious of an open door into the next office and found there William Barnes, a brick broker. They brought him in to join Schaefer. The leader then scooped up the pay envelopes, containing $10,000, filled his pockets to capacity and calling to his companion, "Come on, I've got it," he dashed from the office. After giving him a head start, the other man backed out after him, keeping Miss Butch, Schaefer and Barnes covered with his pistol. In the next office, he was joined by the three gunmen guarding the eight employees and Miss Higgins. A whistle was heard from the archway below and all four turned and made for the limousine. O'Connor and the man from the telephone booth were similarly released and the entire band of seven then drove away up Twelfth avenue.

Pursuer is Outdistanced. John Danderstoeck, a pier watch man, returning from his rounds, saw the heavy car speeding away, and at a shout from O'Connor, advising what had happened, Danderstoeck boarded a passing automobile and persuaded the driver to start in pursuit. They were soon outdistanced and Danderstoeck was forced to abandon the chase. Detectives arrived later in a police automobile in answer to a summons. Miss Higgins rushed to Police Headquarters. No trace of the fugitives was reported to have been discovered.

BELIEVE GIRL VICTIM OF POISON LIQUOR.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—Mystery surrounds the death of a pretty young woman who was found dead on a doorway on Newland street, South End, today. She is believed to have been the victim of poison liquor. No identification papers were found, nor were there any marks on her clothing to lead to her identity.

The woman, in an unconscious condition, was discovered by Clifford Cameron, a paper boy. She died en route to City Hospital. The woman was about 25 years old. Light complexion and dark hair.

Only One Dead Killed. But one dead was filed at the Ulster county clerk's office for record on Thursday, the smallest number on any one business day in a long time. The dead filed was from William G. Schuyler and wife, George Thomas and wife, a property on the northern side of Deerpark street, Kingston. Consideration $1.

Mrs. Clark and Cowan in Jail

Widow of Hammer Murder Victim Arrested Following Funeral—Klud Klud Are Cooperating With Authorities.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hillsdale, N. J., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Priscilla Kent Clark, strikingly attractive dark eyed widow of William J. Clark, who was mysteriously murdered with a hammer, and her alleged admirer, Joseph Cowan, were both in custody today and subjected to severe grilling at the hands of the authorities.

Cowan, police say, admitted he loved Mrs. Clark and had obtained her "half promise" to elope with him to Florida.

Both the parties deny they know who killed Clark. "I don't know any more than I told you before," Mrs. Clark reiterated to the authorities today.

Her original story was that Clark was hit on the head with the hammer from behind while he was in his garage late last Monday night after he had brought her and her mother to their home in his machine.

Cowan, a big, quiet, blonde man, insisted he was home in bed about this time the murder was committed.

An unusual feature of the investigation is that, according to apparently reliable information, a score of members of the Ku Klux Klan are cooperating with the authorities in a determined effort to solve the crime. Clark was a member of the hooded order.

The slain man was buried in a Klansman's uniform. The funeral was attended by twenty-five members of the Klan and nine women members of the Klamela. They were in full regalia, including masks.

Mrs. Clark's arrest came immediately after the funeral was over. She was removed from the funeral cortege, against her vigorous protests. She was on the verge of collapse as she was taken to police headquarters.

Mrs. Clark and Cowan were arraigned in Hillsdale police court and held without bail.

Nelson Kent, Mrs. Clark's stepfather, came to police headquarters and expressed surprise that the police should suspect her of being implicated. He was not allowed to see Mrs. Clark.

The police said today they had evidence that Cowan was not at home in bed, as he claims, at the time the murder was committed. They say they can prove he was at 210 Elizabeth avenue, Newark, at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Clark entered his garage and was beaten to death some time between midnight and one a. m. that day.

While the authorities were quizzing Cowan, Mrs. Cowan authorized her attorney to bring suit for divorce, naming Mrs. Clark as co-respondent.

Chapman Denied A New Trial

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hartford, Conn., Nov. 6.—"No more than I expected."

Gerald Chapman, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of James Skelly, a New Britain policeman, made only that remark when Warden Scott of the state prison here, notified him early last evening that the supreme court of errors had denied his appeal for a new trial.

Chapman then turned away from the warden and sat on the edge of his cot to resume reading a book.

So Warden Scott described his interview with Chapman, who had only his guards with him when the warden entered. Besides his guards Chapman sees only the Rev. M. P. Barry, Roman Catholic chaplain of the prison, and on rare occasions, his counsel.

Chapman has been condemned to die on December 3.

The court's decision was handed down in Bridgeport. It was written by Chief Justice George N. Wheeler and concurred in by all of the assistant justices.

No Error, Says Court. The super bandit's appeal was from the verdict of guilty brought in by a jury which tried him in superior court in Hartford last spring.

"There is no error," said the supreme court's decision, after reviewing the facts and alleged errors in the case.

The decision said that "the result of our consideration and reflection has led us to the fixed opinion that the verdict reached by the jury was the only verdict which reasonable minds could reasonably have reached upon this evidence."

Seldom is a charge of this character so completely and conclusively proved," the decision declared.

Had Fair Trial. "Chapman had a fair and impartial trial," the court said. It swept aside the defense contention that there was error in the drawing of jurors' names in these words:

"It does not appear that the rights of the accused were unfairly prejudiced by the manner in which the panel was drawn."

The court added that there was nothing to indicate that the action of Judge Jennings in denying a motion to segregate witnesses operated in any way to the disadvantage of Chapman.

Chapman has only one hope left of escaping the death penalty. That is a reprieve by the governor to permit the case to be taken into the United States Supreme Court.

Main Features Of the New Tax Reduction Bill

Republican Leaders Believe New Bill Is Politically "Bomb Proof"—A Million Taxpayers Removed from Roll Is Effort—Table of Rates On Small Incomes.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Nov. 6.—A tax reduction bill that will be politically "bomb proof" was predicted today by Republican leaders in congress as a result of the agreements reached in the ways and means committee, which is writing the bill behind closed doors.

The main features of the new bill—a reduction of suitcases from 40 per cent to 20 per cent, exemption of all incomes below the $3,500 class, and a slight reduction in the normal rates on small incomes—have been ratified.

The net effect of these, and other changes of lesser importance is to remove 1,000,000 taxpayers from the rolls at one sweep, and reduce the government's revenue by approximately $200,000,000 annually.

The treasury disapproves of the removal of so many small taxpayers from the rolls, but the Republicans in Congress, having to deal with the Democrats, decided upon it as a compromise.

The Democrats, under the leadership of Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas, have been writing their own bill, proposing complete exemption of all incomes up to the $5,000 class. This would have removed some 3,000,000 taxpayers from the rolls.

Republican leaders were fearful that unless they took steps to meet the Democratic attitude, the coalition of Democrats and Progressives would operate to kill the Republican bill, as they did the original Mellon plan two years ago.

Now, by the $3,500 exemption, retention of the 25 per cent reduction allowed "earned income" and the reduction of normal rates from 2, 4 and 6 per cent to 1 1/2, 3 and 5 per cent, they feel they have stolen most of the Democratic thunder before the tax issue ever reaches the floor of Congress.

As now framed, the new tax bill will allow approximately the same percentage of reduction to the "little fellow" as the "big fellow."

While the rich man will have his tax cut in half through the dropping of the surtax rate from 40 per cent to 20 per cent, the man below the $10,000 class will obtain virtually the same reduction.

The following table shows the effect of the new rates on incomes up to $10,000:

Net income	Present tax	New tax
$ 3,000	7.50	0.00
3,500	10.00	0.00
4,000	22.50	5.63
5,000	37.50	16.37
6,000	57.50	28.13
7,000	87.50	39.37
8,000	127.50	57.25
9,000	167.50	78.75
10,000	207.50	101.25

CARS DAMAGED BUT NOBODY HURT IN PORT EWEN CRASH

There was a collision between a Ford car driven by Mr. Murphy of Port Ewen and the Packard car of George Brooks of this city, at Port Ewen Thursday evening which resulted in considerable damage to the Packard car. Mr. Brooks driving south near the residence of Deputy Sheriff William Dibble at Port Ewen was suddenly confronted by the Ford car which had turned to the left of the road in order to make a wide swing and proceed down the street which leads down the hill to lower Port Ewen. The contention is that the Ford car was running without lights at the time. A woman passenger in the Ford car became hysterical and there was considerable excitement for a time until the tangle was straightened out. No one was injured. Both cars were considerably damaged. An arrest will probably be made.

File Biggest Bond In Rose Estate

Bond of Committee of Ezekiel O. Rose is for $1,200,000—Illness Results in His Retirement from Active Business.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 6.—Although Ezekiel O. Rose, 82 years old retired merchant of Stony Point, N. Y., has an estate valued at considerable more than one million dollars, he has been declared incompetent to manage his estate, and on Thursday Joseph T. Gaynor, representative of the American Surety Company at Nyack, N. Y., filed the largest bond ever filed in Rockland county for the committee of the incompetent.

The bond was issued by the American Surety Company for $1,200,000. Marshall L. Brower, assistant secretary of the American Surety Company at 100 Broadway, said that Mr. Rose is a patient at Dr. MacDonald's house at Central Valley, Orange county, under the care of Dr. Pilgrim, and had been a resident of Stony Point since Civil War days. He was for many years president of the Penny Drug Company of that town. His great fortune it was said was built up since he left the drug business to enter the field of general merchandise in Rockland county. He returned about three years ago.

Mr. Brower also said that the committee of the incompetent consists of Albert E. Rose of Kingston, N. Y., a nephew; Walter G. Hamilton, county treasurer of the county of Rockland and vice-president of the Haverstraw National Bank, and Oscar E. Reynolds, cashier of the Peoples' National Bank at Haverstraw. The property is said to consist entirely of stocks, bonds and mortgages.

Ezekiel O. Rose is one of the owners of the Rose-Gorman-Rose store of this city and Albert E. Rose is one of the active members of the company.

BECOMES GRAND OPERA STAR AT TWENTY-FIVE

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 6.—A grand opera star at twenty-five. This is the signal honor that will come to Mary Lewis, of Little Rock, Ark., and formerly of Dallas, Texas.

It was announced by the Metropolitan Opera Company that she has been engaged to sing star parts this season. She probably will be heard first in January in the role of Mimi in "La Boheme."

"I'm delighted with the chance and I'm sure I will make good," Miss Lewis modestly declared today. "I have been favored by marvelous luck throughout my career, but at the same time I've worked and tried hard."

Miss Lewis heard grand opera sung for the first time only five years ago. She broke all traditions by making her debut in Vienna in 1923, a little more than one year after she had first taken up the study of grand opera.

Her first public singing was in the choir of the Methodist Church at Dallas. During the next eleven years she sang and played the violin and pipe organ in church at Dallas and Little Rock.

Six years ago she ran away from her home in Little Rock to appear in a traveling musical show. She traveled all the way to San Francisco with the show.

Eventually she came to New York and two years ago became a star singer with Ziegfeld's "Follies."

Minute's Darkness At Victory Ball

At Eleven O'clock Lights Will Go Out While Entire Assemblage Stands at Attention in Memory of World War Victims.

There will be a short but impressive ceremony at the Victory Ball at the armory on Wednesday, November 11, in memory of the men and women who gave their lives in the World War, or who have since passed on from wounds and diseases resulting from the service.

A minute before 11 p. m. (the armistice became effective November 11, 1918, at 11 a. m.) a bugler will sound "Attention." The assemblage will cease all noise and movement, stand at attention, and at 11 o'clock the lights in the armory will go out, and the entire assemblage will stand at attention for one minute. At the expiration of the minute, the bugler will sound "Taps," then the lights will be turned on and the dance will go on. The American Legion asks the cooperation of every one who attends the ball in this touching little honor in memory of their comrades, "at the eleventh hour, of the eleventh day, of the eleventh month."

Music by Lopez.

The Victory Ball, the seventh annual ball given in Kingston by the local post of the American Legion, given each year on the anniversary of the armistice, has always been a decided social and financial success. This year an even greater success is desired and expected, because added revenues are needed for the operation of the American Legion Memorial Building, Kingston's Patriotic Service Station. To insure that success, one of America's famous dance orchestras has been engaged. On the night of this year's Victory Ball the people of Ulster county will be privileged to dance to the music of the Vincent Lopez Club Orchestra of 11 musicians.

Other Pleading Features.

The decorations at the armory will be unique, delicious—but satisfying—refreshments will be served, and the maximum amount of dancing space possible on the armory floor will be arranged.

Margin on Bond Issues Dwindles

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Belated election returns from rural districts today had cut the margin for Governor Smith's $100,000,000 bond issue cut to 50,000 With 500 Districts Still to be Heard From—Grade Crossing Bond Issue Adopted.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Belated election returns from rural districts today had cut the margin for Governor Smith's $100,000,000 bond issue to about 50,000, but Democratic leaders here said they were certain the proposal had been ratified.

A majority of 100,000 for the governor's proposal dwindled last night as the late returns from the country districts came straggling in. With about 500 districts still to be heard from, the proposition had a majority of about 50,000.

Friends of Governor Smith were disturbed for a time last night as to the ultimate success of the bond proposal but today they were confident it had been adopted. The exact result probably will not be known, it was said, until the returns from all counties are compiled by the state board of compilers, late this month.

Governor Smith, however, was not disturbed today about the success of the proposal. He said he was certain it had been ratified by a "good majority."

The $296,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of railroad grade crossings has been adopted by over 296,000 majority, the Democratic leaders said.

Parents and Four Children Were Burned to Death

Mr. and Mrs. George Kemp and Four Children Burned to Death in Ballston Spa Fire—Elderly Daughter Escapes But May Die From Burns.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Ballston Spa, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A man and his wife and four of the five children were burned to death here today when fire destroyed the home of George Kemp. The dead are: George Kemp, 40.

Mrs. Mary Kemp, 38. Viola Allen, 14. Myrtle Allen, 9. Carol Allen, 10. Marcia Kemp, 11. The Allen children were Mrs. Kemp's by a previous marriage.

The only person who was in the house when the fire started and who escaped death was Beatrice Kemp, 16 but she was badly burned and may die.

The fire is believed to have started on Church street just outside the village line on the Schenectady-Ballston road. It was near a small garage operated by Kemp.

The girl who escaped jumped through a window and ran to the home of a neighbor. Her clothing was in flames and but for the quick work of Walter Bentley, a neighbor, she would have been burned to death.

Five of the dead, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were found huddled in one room. From the position of the bodies, Dr. Robert C. Gastree, coroner, said he believed Kemp had been trying to lead his wife and children safely from the house when they were all overcome.

Firemen found the wooden bungalow a roaring furnace when they arrived. They strung a line of hose more than a quarter of a mile from the village limits to play water on the structure.

The body of one of the children was found in a separate room. It also was burned beyond recognition. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kemp had been previously married.

The fire started just after midnight. Beatrice Kemp told the firemen she was awakened by the crackling of flames and that she rushed to a window screaming fire. She said she thought she heard her parents moving about in another room and believed they were making their way to safety with the other children.

Neighbors told the firemen the flames appeared to center about the chimney when they reached the scene. The entire side of the house facing the garage broke into flames a few seconds after the oldest girl aroused neighbors.

SEVENTEEN INJURED IN ROCHESTER EXPLOSION

By Telegram to The Freeman. Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 6.—An explosion in the jannanning department of the Yawman and Erbe Company's factory this morning injured 17 workers, 14 of them women, and shook the neighborhood for miles around.

Ambulances, firemen and police reserves were rushed to the scene. Two victims were sent to city hospitals while the rest, cut by flying glass, were treated in the company's hospital.

The blast believed to have originated in the enameling ovens on the fourth floor of the plant, threw the 700 employees into a panic and caused heavy damage to the interior. Clocks were stopped in houses 1,000 feet away by the force of the explosion.

Firemen and company officials started an investigation to learn the cause of the blast. The Yawman and Erbe Company is engaged in the manufacture of office furniture.

FORD PRODUCTION BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Detroit, Nov. 6.—Two records for manufacture of motor cars in the United States were established by the Ford Motor Company with the close of October. Saturday, the last day of the month, the company's domestic assembly plants produced a total of 9,195 Ford cars and trucks, exceeding Friday's record output of 9,017 and setting a new high mark for any one day. The total production for October was 244,827 cars and trucks, which tops any previous month.

LARGEST RUN SHIP IS TOWED INTO PORT.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—The schooner La Parisienne, alleged "king" of Canadian rum ships, was towed into port today by the coast guard cutter Tampa.

The vessel, which was captured off Cape Cod, had eluded capture by patrol boats for more than two years. La Parisienne is the largest ship yet taken by the coast guard in the rum blockade.

Is Killed Because His Victim Lacked Sense of Humor.

Stanton, Nov.—A poor taste in the matter of practical jokes cost Lewis Jensen, forty, a bachelor farmer, his life, and has resulted in the arrest of Frank Thor of the same age, on the charge of first degree murder. Jensen and the Thors lived on nearby farms in the Pilger neighborhood. A few days ago Mrs. Thor left on a trip to Denmark, their former home. Thor has been a steady, hard-working and prosperous farmer, but a bit turgid in his thinking. The day after Mrs. Thor left, Jensen met Thor, and in discussing the wife's

Thor Killed Him.

Jensen, in a spirit of jest, told Thor that while she was gone he wanted Thor to put his property in his wife's name because he, Jensen, was going to marry her when she returned. Victim Brooded.

Thor said nothing at the time, but apparently brooded over what had been said, and fearing that Jensen intended following his wife he armed himself and sought out Jensen. He found him trading in one of the stores in Pilger, and waited until he had finished and had started on his way home. Thor overtook and stopped him.

He says he asked Jensen if he meant what he said the other day. Jensen smilingly assented that he did and, pulling a revolver, Thor killed him. Thor gave himself up. His wife was wired for, and has returned. She said Jensen had had no talk with her about getting married, and that their relations were merely those of a neighbor. Jensen was known as a joker, and the theory generally held is that he thought it would plague Thor, because the latter has no sense of humor.

Girl Walks Three Days
to See Sick Mother

Baltimore, Md.—Bernice Cleveland, sixteen years old, who was in an orphanage in New York city, wanted to see her mother. Her mother is in the Home for Incurables at Washington and has been told she is dying of cancer.

Bernice heard about it and started for Washington. Cora Holt, a year younger, her best friend, stole away with her late at night. At 3:30 a. m. three days later Patrolman Spencer saw two desolate little figures sitting on a curbstone. Bernice and Cora, tearful, told him this story and asked for advice.

"Why don't your relatives send you to Washington?" Bernice was asked. "There aren't any relatives to do that," she said. "Father's a baseball player in the Tidewater league. I'd like to see him, too, please. But there wasn't anybody much in New York to send me to mother. We walked mostly."

The girls were placed in care of the police matron and police communicated with the New York and Washington authorities to verify their story.

Child Is Killed by
Supposedly Tame Bear

Ottisville, N. Y.—Dorothy Craig, nine years old, died at the office of a physician from wounds suffered when she was attacked by a supposedly tame bear.

The bear—one of two kept chained in a tent in the yard of Dorothy's father, James Craig—snapped its collar and attacked the child as she was at play. The bear knocked the little girl down and tore her throat.

Leo Shovel and Blake Newkirk hastened to aid her, the bear tearing at its victim while its mate growled and snarled at its chains. The two men beat the bear with a plank and Craig attacked it with a knife, but the animal did not release its hold on the child until a neighbor shot it. The mate also was killed.

The bears were caught as cubs in the mountains near here three years ago. Craig had kept them for exhibition purposes, charging visitors a small admission fee.

KIDNAPED BABY
SEEKS PARENTS

Stolen Forty-Six Years Ago
Out of Revenge

Springfield, Mo.—In the spring of 1879 a little company of travelers passed through Springfield in light spring wagons and continued on their way on a road leading northeast from the city. Stopping at a small town two miles outside of the city, members of the band attempted to steal some vegetables from a garden.

The farmer's wife, who was alone at the farmhouse, with her two-year-old daughter, objected to this and set the dogs on the unwelcome visitors and forced them to beat a hasty retreat. Angered at being chased by the dogs, one member of the band slipped into the front yard of the farmhouse, and before the mother's eyes kidnaped the baby.

The travelers then jumped into their wagons and soon disappeared. By the time the neighbors had arrived at the farmhouse in answer to the mother's screams the travelers' wagons were several miles away and a chase proved futile. Much excitement was caused in Greene county by the kidnaping, but through the long years nothing had been heard of the missing child until recently, when Chief of Police A. C. Boehm received a letter from a woman residing at 1311 South Bobbett street, Oklahoma City, Okla. The writer, Mrs. Belle Cullison, is now forty-eight. Her letter tells the story:

"Chief of Police, Springfield, Mo.: Dear Sir—I am a stranger to you, but I would like your help. I don't know whether my parents are living or dead. In the spring of the year 1879 a little girl about two years old was kidnaped from her father's farm by a company of travelers in camp wagons. They stole me because mother set the bloodhounds on them. "One of the families kept me as a prisoner and raised me as their own child. Before the man died, however, he made a confession. Now, I would like to find my own father and mother if they are still living. At the time I was kidnaped my parents lived on a farm one and one-half miles east of Springfield. "Their name was Joseph Cecord, or Secord. I don't know how to spell the name. I have tried to find them by writing letters, but they have been sent back. I had an aunt by the name of Alice Cecord. Please help me to find them if you can."

Childhood Sweetheart

Posen, Mich.—Presque Isle county's "Sleeping Beauty" is a bride. Francis Pieczynski, nineteen years old, who in 1922 drew wide interest by falling into a deep, trance-like sleep from which she would awaken at intervals of weeks to tell of jumbled visions of a religious nature, has become Mrs. John Szczepaniak.

The nature of the malady which afflicted the girl three years ago was no puzzle to physicians, who said it was plain sleeping sickness for which they proceeded to treat the girl. The girl's "visions," always of a religious nature, awed the countryfolk. The girl was another Joan of Arc, they said.

The girl rose from the sickbed, but it was by way of slow convalescence. Folk who once looked at her as a Joan of Arc waited in vain for supernatural manifestations.

When her wedding to her childhood sweetheart took place they all trooped to the church as they had trooped to the sick room. To them she is still a person apart, one who has talked with another world.

Baby in Boiler

Columbus, Ohio.—Mrs. Edith Lane, twenty-nine, to whom a son was born six weeks ago, placed the child in a wash boiler, filled with water and lighted a fire under it at her home. Several hours later the woman's husband discovered the child dead.

Mrs. Lane is held at the county jail pending an examination of her mental condition. To Dr. W. D. Deuchle and Dr. Robert C. Tarbell, alienists, Mrs. Lane made a calm and disinterested statement. She said the child had been ailing and that yesterday she had taken it to a physician, Dr. Leslie Lise, who told her its condition was improved.

"Where is the baby now?" the alienists asked.

"I do not know where he is," she answered. "I fed him this morning at four o'clock and I suppose he is with my sister. She will take good care of him."

The alienists said they were inclined to believe she is mentally irresponsible and has been so since the child was born.

NEW RACE SEGREGATION.

There is pending before the Federal Supreme Court a suit to determine whether thirty Washington taxpayers can restrain a neighbor on S street from breaking her pledge by selling property to a negro. Upon the court's decision in this case will depend, it is said, the fate of similar cases which have arisen in St. Louis, Los Angeles and other cities. There have been judicial decisions against race-segregation laws, but this is a different question, one concerning the right to keep negroes out of a residential district by a property owners' agreement. It would seem that a private agreement of this kind or other sort among property owners is beyond the jurisdiction of the courts, unless such agreements should become so general as to restrict seriously the right of acquiring property and thus run counter to law or established American principles. Presumably possible development of this sort is what the Supreme Court will take into consideration.

In Southern cities race segregation is regarded as a matter of course. The residential districts occupied by the blacks are not definitely fixed, but it is understood on both sides that they are to group themselves, and undoubtedly such an arrangement is in the interests of the public peace where, as in the South, the race problem is made a very serious one by a more or less equal color division of the population. In the North the difficulties are less pronounced owing to the relative smallness of the negro population; but sentiment among the white majority of the whites is essentially the same, at least for reasons very clearly seen in the case of the politicians, it is less openly acknowledged. Occupation of a common territory by two such dissimilar races as the whites and blacks inevitably presents serious problems.

INCONSISTENT.

In his article in the November Harper's on "Law Making and Law Enforcement," Dr. Hadley, president emeritus of Yale University, says "the true Christian, who values the liberty of the Gospel higher than the bondage of law, will often have to choose between the danger of lawlessness which results from ignoring a statute and the danger of tyranny which is involved in passive obedience." On the other hand, Dr. Melish of Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, and Rabbi Lyons of the same city, would even go beyond the letter of the law, for they have come forward with the argument that, inasmuch as we are living under the Volstead act, the use of wine in the communion service should be abolished—although still legally permitted. It is not to be expected that a Jewish rabbi would attach importance to the fact that the "cup" given to the disciples at the memorable supper was identified as "this fruit of the vine," and as "wine," but what of Dr. Melish, rector of a Christian church?

It is a curious fact that fundamentalists, who accept the Bible literally throughout and are so hostile to science, should at the same time exhibit a readiness to revise Holy Writ in the interests of prohibition, in "The Shorter Bible," for example, actually deleting favorable references to wine and even omitting the whole story of the marriage at Cana of Galilee, where water was converted into wine by Divine power. Here is a remarkable fundamentalist inconsistency which the contending modernists appear to have overlooked.

The first week of the hunting season in New York seems to have resulted in the bagging of more men than of deer. Reports come from Ulster that in the first four days five persons were killed or wounded, to say nothing of scores of sportsmen who were "shot at in mistake for deer"—with the result that the more prudent hunters are getting out of the Adirondack woods as fast as they can. Fortunately both for them and the public in the vicinity the average of marksmanship is pretty low. According to the New York World, many of the men who are after deer are "wounded by their own with a gun" and the state needs "measures for the protection of hunters of no less than of game."

A lawyer in a New Jersey court, whose client was in danger of the forfeiture of his bail-bond, impressively quoted: "And another said, I have married a wife and therefore can not come." Whereupon the Judge decreed: "I believe the Bible is good enough authority to allow a continuance of the case." If the New Testament had been introduced and the whole parable read, it is likely that a different decision would have been heard from the bench.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.
(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

A "NEW" METHOD OF REDUCING.

One of our Southern papers made a very humorous remark recently when it stated that the exercise that reduces the waist line most quickly consists in placing the hands on the table and pushing back.

And many of our clever writers who ridicule the value of exercise would have less ground for their jests if the exercise above were more generally adopted.

They are certainly justified in smiling at some of our stout people who endeavor to reduce their weight by spasmodic and heroic efforts at heavy exercise, and who, as a result, forget the exercise mentioned above, of pushing back from the table. Because after all where the weight is taken on is at the table.

Men and women will spend hours walking, horse back riding, bicycling, at heavy gymnasium work, to get rid of their superfluous weight, and they will not push the table away, but will literally draw it to them, as they take into their system enormous meals which simply add to their poundage.

Some folks will even go to a Turkish bath establishment, undergo the successive steps from the hot water to the feet, to the plunging in the tank, take off a good three or four short nap, then call for a lunch and liquid refreshment, and before they leave the establishment will have the three pounds back on board again.

Remember that liquids, even water, are foods and build up flesh. You never see a boxer or jockey to whom weight is everything, indulging in liquids to any extent.

They keep "dried out" as they call it, abstaining from all liquids.

Water is good for everybody all right but puts on weight just the same, because all your foods are mostly water.

Now exercise replaces fat with muscles. No one would ever deny that. But if you will not take the regulation exercise in games or other ways, then remember the advice of one Southern friend, and take the exercise of pushing the table away from you.

Just Why One Editor Has Turned Pessimist

No one is more annoyed than the one who tries to beautify the town in which he lives. No matter how earnestly he works, criticisms and annoyances must arise. As an example of this we have to say that the Beacon office needed a new sign and hired Jack Sigler of Red Wine to paint it. It's a peach. Then the sign had to be properly installed and we employed Fritz Miller as chief consulting engineer and master of ceremonies. Some thought a 4 by 6 post was the thing, while others thought a 4 by 4 would do. Then a windy observer mentioned gas pipe. We decided on gas pipe as more suitable for a printing office. The sign was therefore firmly bolted on a gas pipe. And there she shines in all her pristine glory.

After installation ceremonies were over, we sought the solitude of our sanctum to ponder over the completion of this dream of years, well pleased with the plaudits of all progressive citizens. While there we heard a plaintive note emanating from that gas-pipe standard or post and we wondered if it had been transformed into an Aeolian harp. Finally it sounded like woodpeckers pecking for worms. We picked up the shovels which we kept for the benefit of delinquent subscribers, went out and watched.

To our amazement we saw members of the proletariat as they passed by deliberately knocking their pipes against the gas-pipe standard to clear their pipes of debris so that they could load up again when men will do the likes of that, there is no use in talking about improving the town.—Boston Globe

Counting a Million
The time it would take a man to count 1,000,000 dollar bills would depend on the rapidity of the count. Those familiar with banking money can count 20,000 a day, whereas some experts in this line have counted 40,000 in one day. At these rates it would take from 25 to 50 days to count 1,000,000.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.
By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

WAS THIS THE KING'S AIM?

It His Britannic Majesty, George III, really wanted to settle his difficulties with the rebellious American Colonies 150 years ago, why did he persist time after time in arousing their ire by new manifestations of his royal displeasure? Why did he contemptuously cast aside all the olive branches which they sent him in the form of petitions, resolutions, and other expressions of their willingness to be reasonable if he would only be the same?

The Continental Congress had even sent Richard Penn to London as an ambassador of good will, and Richard Penn's rating as a loyal subject of Great Britain was alone sufficient to entitle him to a respectful hearing, if not by the King himself, at least by a minister of the King. But he had no such hearing, and when finally he was permitted to present the petition of the Congress to Lord Dartmouth, he was told that there would be no answer.

Was the King determined to make reconciliation impossible except on his own terms? John Paul Jones thought that he was. John Paul Jones did not attain the full measure of his fame in the Revolution until the war was well along, but from its beginning he was an ardent patriot, although as late as 1773 he had been a British subject in Scotland. Jones was first of all an able mariner and a daring naval officer, but he was also a keen observer of men and affairs and his opinion was often sought on the big issues of the day.

When, early in the war he wrote the following letter to Joseph Hewes and sent copies of it to Thomas Jefferson, Robert Morris and Philip Livingston, he not only expressed his own belief, but also put into plain English what many patriot leaders were already beginning to think:

"It is, I think, to be taken for granted that there can be no more temporizing. I am too recently from the Mother Country and my knowledge of the temper of the King, his Ministers and their majority in the Commons is too fresh to allow me to believe that anything now is or possibly can be in store except either war to the knife or total submission to complete slavery."

"I have long known that it is the fixed purpose of the Tory party in England to provoke these Colonies to some overt act which would justify martial law dispersion of the legislative bodies by force of arms, taking away the charters of self-government and reduction of all the North American Colonies to the footing of the West India Islands and Canada—that is, to Crown Colonies under military rule; or, perhaps to turn them over to the mercies of a Chartered Company as in Hindostan, all of which I have seen I cannot conceive of submission to complete slavery; therefore only war is in sight."

Generous Job

A Holyoke (Mass.) man in Worcester found that he had spent all his money, and began looking about for a chance to earn some. Seeing a group of men digging for the foundation of a new building, he asked the foreman if he could go to work. "Sure," said the foreman, "help yourself to a shovel." Picking up an idle shovel, the newcomer worked away for a couple of hours. Finally, when he paused for a rest, one of the men who was working beside him said: "I don't seem to know you—where do you live?" "I live in Holyoke," replied the newcomer. "What are you doing here?" asked the other. "All of us Worcester men are giving a day's work free to help build the new Presbyterian church."—Boston Globe.

To Freshen Wall Paper.

An ingenious way to freshen unpattered dinky wall paper is to get about a quart of flat ivory paint such as is used for interiors, and with a sponge daub it to dab the walls. This may be done in the original color of the paper or in a harmonizing tone. In the former case the use of the paint may be quite liberal, but in the latter care must be used not to get too dark an effect nor yet too gaudy a one. This method produces a stippled surface with a soft blur which is distinctly attractive.

Dangerous Knowledge

"I want a summons against my husband for threatening to throw me out," said a woman at Wilkesden, England.

"You can't have one," answered the magistrate. "It isn't an offense."

"Isn't it?" rejoined the woman. "Then I'll go straight back and throw him out."

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 25 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and six per cent common kerosene (read ad).

The inventor, H. V. Johnson, 612 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first party in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the lamp, and without expenditure or trouble make $250 to $500 per month.

Volunteers' Tag Day Tomorrow

Contributing to the Volunteers of America tomorrow through the purchase of a red heart tag means helping some of the most needy children in the state.

Those who have been invited to compete for the prizes and movie passes are asked to meet the leaders, Mrs. G. F. Rice or Miss Elsie Phillips, at headquarters soon after nine o'clock to receive their tags and instructions. Downtown children meet at the public library and uptown children at the court-house. Purchasers are asked to display their tags to avoid second appeals. The committee hopes every one will have two hearts on Saturday, their own and one of the Volunteers of America's to help some one else.

Even Now Is Not

at Home in Jerusalem

One morning, with much the same feeling as when I stepped from the pullman to the edge of the Grand canyon or entered Charley Brown's barber shop to get my first adolescent shave, I passed through the Jaffa gate, written H Bon-Shamar in the Menorah Journal. Ahead of me strode a lemonade vender, clinking his brass cups to call the thirsty to the pinkish mess that filled his enormous glass jar. From a distance rose the cry of an oriental market in the full swing of advertisement and vituperation. As I stumbled over the rough paving I was vaguely aware of the stone mass of the Tower of David. Once it was behind me I considered that after all my trepidation and dallying I was at length in Jerusalem. I raised my head and looked about. I saw the faces of a tourist agency.

I entered a long stone passage, lined with shops, more a flight of steps than a street. It was bound together with stone arches. It was hung with drapers' goods, dead sheep, shoes and kerchiefs. It was thronged with an unwashed multitude, their heads bobbing up from the lower depths as they climbed the grade, turbaned heads, skull-capped heads, veiled heads, wimpled heads (women of Bethlehem), tar-boothed heads, calpacked heads, derby-crowned heads, nose-and-ear-ringed heads. It choked with noise. It brayed with asses and tinkled with camels. It danced with gesticulation. Vegetable, fruit and meat shops grew thicker, the odor of garlic began to mount, the earlocks fell longer, strings of sausage swung into view, and I saw a sign, "Nathan Straus Milk Station." I was in the Jewish quarter. There is pathos in the phrase, "Jewish quarter," and more in the reality it describes. One does not and cannot speak of a French quarter in Paris or an American quarter in Washington. But the Jew, traditional, orthodox, Yiddish-speaking or Sephardic Jew, native to the city for generations, is as much a stranger in Jerusalem as he is in London. Despite the fact that the majority of the population are Jews, Jerusalem is again as it was those thousands of years gone, one of the cities "which ye build not, on, ye dwell in them."

Slightly Exaggerated

One of the recent batch of Florida stories had it that Brown, a former resident of Columbus, Ohio, had made a killing in Florida real estate. He had cleaned up $50,000 in three months at Miami, Fla., so the story went.

A former neighbor, hearing about it, became quite excited and hustled into Brown's brother's office and said: "By George, that's great about Bill making $50,000 in Florida in three months. It's just great, now, isn't it?"

Brown's brother said: "It wasn't in Florida, 'twas in California, and they got the story mixed just a little. It was three years and not three months."

"That doesn't make any difference," interrupted friend neighbor, full of enthusiasm. "By George, he made the money!"

Brown's brother continued: "They also got the amount wrong. It was $5,000 instead of $50,000, and—and he didn't make it—he lost it!"—Forbes Magazine.

Gorgeous Floral Welcome

When the triennial Episcopal convention met in New Orleans, besides the welcome of handshakes visitors were greeted by flowers of purple and gold, nodding and smiling from every garden and porch. Nooks hitherto unplanted were coaxed into showing what they could do.

Much care was given to planting to produce the desired floral effect. The facility with which flowers can be grown in Louisiana warranted expectation that the city would present a brilliant picture. The purple salvia, dwarf yellow marigolds, zinnias and cosmos, all of which are at their best in September and October, were associated with purple budelia, lantana and wild ageratum to produce the effect desired for the official flower welcome to the visitors.

Salt Won't Protect Wood

Some unsuccessful attempts have been made to use salt (chloride of sodium) as a means of protecting wood against decay. The low toxicity and high solubility of this material make it unsatisfactory as a wood preservative unless under conditions where it will be present in strong concentrations. Such conditions, however, are seldom possible in materials.

SIBERIAN TIGERS

"The winter is coming," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"Let it come," said Master Siberian Tiger.

"The people will shiver," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"Let them shiver," said Master Siberian Tiger.

"They will wear furs and even then they will be cold," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"Serves them right," said Master Siberian Tiger. "Who ever asked them to wear furs?"

"I'm sure I didn't," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"I know that is true," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"I know it is," agreed Master Siberian Tiger.

"We came from Siberia and so we are called the Siberian tigers," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"There is nothing strange or wonderful or interesting about that," said Master Siberian Tiger.

"We are used to cold weather and so here in the zoo they let us live out-of-doors," continued Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"They had better do so," said Master Siberian Tiger. "If they want to keep us, for we would not look so beautiful and handsome with our big bodies and our fine fur if they put us inside, where it is hot and hot."

"People think we're strange when they see that we live out-of-doors during the coldest days of winter," said Mr. Siberian Tiger.

"Hearken to me," said Master Siberian Tiger. "It matters not what people think, for people aren't Siberian tigers and they can't understand our ways."

"So I don't worry about them, but I do my own way and I think my own way."

"Let me tell you, Mr. Tiger, we would be better off if we all did as I do and were quite without interest in what people think."

"Without a doubt you are right," said Mr. Siberian Tiger. "I'll take the hint."

So the tigers walked and paced and raced and growled and ate and slept. They paid no attention to any one but thought of the beautiful winter ahead of them—just a little ahead of them, and they thought how much they would enjoy the cold weather out-of-doors which the zoo people let them enjoy because they knew what Siberian tigers liked.

And the next time Mr. Siberian Tiger talked about the winter which would be along so soon, he said:

"The glorious winter will soon be here, and I'm glad, and I don't care if people think I'm queer or not."

It was a beautiful sight to see them, too, out-of-doors on the cold, snapping days of winter, their fur looking so handsome and their eyes looking so though they were more contented here at this time of the year than at any other.

The Hippopotamus Agreed to Send One.

But they were too indifferent to people and to the other creatures in the zoo to send a zootlet to the Zootlet society, which, as you know, is a society in which different creatures of the zoo make up little rhymes about themselves.

They were wanting a new rhyme just at this time and asked the Siberian tigers to do one, but they refused, so the Hippopotamus agreed to send one.

This was the zootlet of the Hippopotamus:

Said the good old Hippopotamus,
"Some children are so vain,
They worry over freckles,
They wish they weren't so plain.
But I'm above such nonsense,
I know my skin's not fine,
So you don't observe me fretting,
Nor going into eczema."

Her Face Her Fortune

"My sister is awfully lucky," said one little boy to another.

"Why?"

"She went to a party last night where they played a game in which the men either had to kiss a girl or pay a forfeit of a box of chocolates."

"Well, how was your sister lucky?"

"She came home with 13 boxes of chocolates."—Everybody's.

New Variety of Cow

Mr. Jones purchased a fine Holstein cow, of which all the family were very proud.

One day a visitor said to Mary, the three-year-old member of the household: "I suppose you have all the nice cream milk you can drink now."

"Yes," replied Mary, "since we've got our old steam cow."

TEMPTING FOODS

Soups may be either nutritive or stimulating and both kinds are invaluable in the diet.

Beef Broth—Cut two pounds of lean beef into small dice, break the bones and put them with the meat into a saucepan, cover with two quarts of water, when boiling add one carrot, one turnip, one onion—all sliced—and one bunch of herbs. Simmer for three hours, add two tablespoonfuls of cooked rice and serve hot with croutons.

Uncooked Relish—Chop one good sized head of cabbage, three red peppers, one bunch of celery one quart of onions through the meat grinder and add one pound of brown sugar, three-fourths of a cupful of salt, one-fourth cupful of white mustard seed and a tablespoonful of celery seed. Mix well and add as much vinegar as is needed to make of the sugar consistency. If green peppers are used, add cayenne pepper to taste. Seal airtight in cans.

White House Pound Cake—Grate the peeling from one lemon and add it into one pound of butter, when very creamy add one pound of sugar and continue beating for ten minutes. Add the yolks of nine eggs and the juice of five lemons; beat for another ten minutes. Add to this mixture a quarter of a pound each of stoned raisins and currants, chopped candied cherries and seedless raisins, with orange and lemon peel cut into shreds. Fold in gradually a pound of flour, one-fourth pound of rice flour, and one ounce of baking powder. Bake in a well-greased paper lined tin for nearly three hours. Pack in a tin box, this will keep for months.

Spanish Rice—To one cupful of chopped round steak add a tablespoonful of suet and brown in a hot frying pan, stirring well; add a cupful of uncooked meat, a cupful of cooked rice, a cupful of tomato, salt, pepper and cayenne to taste, a tablespoonful each of chopped onion and green pepper which have been fried in suet. Pour into a baking dish and bake until well browned. Serve piping hot with lettuce salad.

THERE IS A CONTRADICTION OF SILHOUETTES IN THIS SEASON'S FASHIONS

A woman's life, "taking one consideration with another," is not often a happy one. Why? Because of the pitfalls everywhere about her this season. In the days when all women wore chemise gowns and cloche hats, the fault fell on fashion not on the women themselves. This year, whether or not a woman looks well is really "up to her" in the vernacular of the day. She may be lovely in a princess, and absurd in a bolero—or the other way about. She may look very well in a skirt which flares at one side—a growing favorite—and very bad in one which flares at both.

It is, verily, a season of contradictions; and it is not unusual that several silhouettes should be offered but that some of them should so com-

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.
GILT LEATHER.

The vogue for gilt leather, today, is tremendous. It is being used as trimming for dresses and coats, even for hats, and now we hear that it is being made into flowers for boutonniere. What next? We find ourselves saying, and settle down to expect the most amazing results.

Many centuries ago, gilt leather was admired for its beauty. Lucian, that most famous satirist and wit from Syria, who wrote the most polished Greek of his time, mentions gilt leather about 160 A. D. in one of his merciless flayings of follies of that age. If anything became the fashion of the day—either a philosophy or a new cut in dress—Lucian could be expected to ask why, and invoke reason against blindly following the fad.

Likely he had seen gilt leather in his native country in Syria, since this metalized product is believed to have come from Asia. The Old Testament, also written in Asia, gives a detailed account of making gold leaf, which the ancients used so lavishly to decorate various articles.

Later, in the Middle Ages, when "knighthood was in flower," often every bit of leather on the armor of man or horse was covered with gilding, and similar leather was also used as a part of civilian wearing apparel. (Fairchild Fashion Service.)

Gold Leather Used as Millinery Decoration

The use of gold leather as a millinery decoration is of exceptional interest and since it is sponsored by the most important milliners of Paris will have an influence upon autumn and winter hat modes. One Paris milliner, who shows a number of hats modeled on the new tricorn line, edges the brims with gold leather which is in effective contrast with the color of the velvet used for their development. A black velvet tricorn has a wide flange of gold leather, while from another comes a novel shape, designed as the mosaic hat, and made of purple velvet cut out in modernistic design to show a lighter tone of velvet. All the edges are bound with gold leather.

Rosewood Felt Hat and Bag

To accompany a smart little hat of rosewood felt there is an envelope bag of the same colored suede.

Fancy Sleeves New

The bottoms of the new sleeves are very often embroidered or trimmed with circular ruffles.

Odd Freak of Nature

A freak kitten was born, and shortly afterward killed by its mother at Victoria Barracks, Belfast, Ireland. Two legs were growing out of the middle of the kitten's back, and at this point its body was split in halves. There were two perfect hind-quarters, complete with legs and tails, so that this freak of nature had eight legs, two tails, and one head.

MOTHER GRAY'S POWDERS BENEFIT MANY CHILDREN

Thousands of mothers have found Mother Gray's Sweet Powders an excellent remedy for children complaining of Headaches, Colds, Fever, Stomach, Worms, Stomach Troubles, and other irregularities from which children suffer these days and excellent results are accomplished by its use. Blouse of Beige Kasha
Duvetyn Underskirt

Here is a charming new sports frock designed by Lucien Lelong, well-known Paris style expert. The underskirt is of reseda green duvetyn and the blouse is of beige kasha, embroidered with aluminum fronds.

Individuality, Keynote of Latest Autumn Hats

While women have shown a disposition to adopt the hat of wider dimensions, and the large hat for the first time in many seasons is conspicuously featured, they have not waned in their allegiance to the small close hat so admirably adapted to the present silhouette. Little high-crowned hats with narrow brims which Reboux first introduced and which she wears with such chic have been the inspiration for other models carried out in felt, velours and velvet, which as the season advances becomes increasingly important.

An extremely fetching little hat is made of black velvet with an interesting decoration of black satin accentuating the height of the crown, and finishing the edge of the brim, while from georgette comes a charming model also of black velvet cleverly draped to fit the contour of the head and ornamented with two long crystal pins.

In keeping with the vogue for small flexible hats is a model with a crown of black panne velvet, and gold kid used for the upturned brim. Little wings of black velvet and gold kid are the only decoration and reflect the feeling for cunningly wrought motifs in metal kid which appear in the collections of the most important modistes.

Plaits Still Used by Some Paris Designers

This season's modes are by no means confined to flare and godet, says a fashion writer in the New York Times. Some of the best couturiers are showing exceedingly chic things in which plaits give ease at the bottom of the skirt. The plait has done much to popularize the plait, and this is varied in many attractive ways. The season's fabrics are particularly well adapted to the plaited model, for crepe and the new wool weaves respond to this treatment and keep their shape. The inverted plait is seen in many of the latest designs and is popular with women who wish to have a frock which appears to be flat, yet is released below the knee. The deep inverted plait is laid in front, directly at the back, or at each side of the skirt, to give an effect of floating panels.

An unusually clever little street frock of microleen has the straight, slender lines and is laid in small plaits held into the shoulder seam in front. Beginning at the waist the material of the skirt is slashed to the hem with fine plaits inverted, giving the appearance of box plaits all the way round. Low about the hips a wide, soft belt is worn.

British Doctors May Write

Within the membership of the British Medical Association there is a movement under way to unfetter the members so that they may write popular articles without being in danger of ethical violations. In the United States doctors have long been allowed to write without impairing their professional standing. The new disclosures in cancer research are partly responsible for the movement, as some eminent authorities apparently think they have something worth telling to the public by way of the printed word.

Twenty Years a Beautiful Corner

Burgevin, Inc., Celebrate Twentieth Anniversary of Their Retail Department at Fair and Main Streets—Pearl Street Greenhouses Are Also Scene of Beauty.

Twenty years ago Thursday Burgevin's Sons, Inc., opened their flower shop in their then new building on the corner of Main and Fair streets. From that day to the present that corner has been a beauty spot, a corner of inspiration in the life of the city of Kingston. Today they celebrated this birthday with a marvelous glow of color and perfection of form of rare chrysanthemums brought from the great green houses on the Pearl street extension. The passerby feasts his eyes on this beautiful picture, but perhaps does not know that he may go to the green houses and see an even more marvelous exhibition of rare and beautiful chrysanthemums, roses, carnations and whole green houses full of other rare and beautiful plants.

GEORGE BURGEVIN.

As so often happens the prophet's greatest glory is out of his own country, and tourists in considerable numbers visit the conservatories that now constitute this big plant, taking note, year by year, of the time of their chrysanthemum show which is now at its height.

One of the most appealing features of chrysanthemums growing to the average person today, is that the Caprice variety, which develops perfectly shaped flowers of lovely colors but which grow in pots so small that they are just right for the home decoration in the living or dining room. One entire greenhouse looks like a rare oriental rug, with its hundreds of these smaller potted chrysanthemums massed together. Then there are green houses of the much more pretentious plants and still others of the giant flowers that people think of in connection with football days and Thanksgiving plenty. Among these later are the lovely lavender-pink Wells' Lake, the burnt orange beauties known as Frank Wilcox, the creamy pompos, Timothy Eaton, the lovely bluish pink "Louise Pickett," the rich gold of the Odessa yellow; the gorgeous purple Earl Kitchener, etc., etc. Again there are masses of prettily colored button chrysanthemums, all perfect specimens with rich clean foliage. Finally there is one green house devoted to the very late chrysanthemums, the Mistletoe which will be in their glory for Thanksgiving and will last in bloom until after the holidays.

DAVID BURGEVIN.

Noted as this concern has become over a wide area for its chrysanthemums, it is equally famous for its carnations and roses. Little wonder, when one sees 9,000 luxuriant carnation plants in one green house, with every silvery green plant tinted with opening or full blown flowers. There are two houses accommodating 9,000 plants each.

In their heaven-climbing propensity the roses are close rivals to the chrysanthemums, and there are several houses with soldier-like bushes from which are gathered daily baskets full of perfect roses of finest texture, color and size—whether baby or American Beauty. Some of the new roses are the pink Columbine, the rich red Crusader and the delicate colored Butterfly as well as the rich gold of the Mrs. Coolidge.

This year the Burgevin's are also specializing in Azaleas which will be in full bloom later, and in hollyhocks. Sweet peas are coming on to flower in profusion now, and already the flowering of Christmas Jerusalem Cherry Trees is well advanced, with the promise of countless poinsettias for the holidays. Having conducted all the years of their lives the Burgevin's are today truly reaping their "Fruit of Reward," and they always invite their friends to visit the green houses as well as the shop to look over their floral treasures.

Woman's Part in Game of Life

Mrs. Putnam Cady Tells Y. W. C. A. Girls That Woman's Real Place is in the Home. Where She is Queen. At the regular Wednesday evening supper at the Y. W. C. A. Miss Salzmann presided and Miss Estey announced that a class in English would be formed. She also asked all who wish to attend the weekly Wednesday evening suppers to be sure that they "sign up" by noon on Tuesday and that if at any time there are those who cannot attend as expected, to notify the Y. W. C. A. later than early Wednesday morning. It is only by catering for just as many as pay for the suppers that the committee is able to offer such excellent meals at the price they do.

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Putnam Cady, whose subject was "What Part the Woman Plays in the Game of Life." Mrs. Cady considered that woman plays the most important and wisest part in the game of life since it is she who lifts or lowers the level of man's life. While women are now actively engaged in business and even politics, the real place of the woman is still in the home, where she is queen. Mrs. Cady named as the woman's goal in the game of life, home-making and character-building. According to an eastern saying,

"Man brings in the money but woman builds the home." The speaker considered spiritual life to be behind all of the great things in world development and said that that spiritual life must be inspired and built upon the spirit of Christ. We learn of that spiritual life in the church—from which have come the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A. and all other things in life today that are worth while.

Even today womanhood does not amount to much in the Orient, and women in America little realize how blessed they are. Life should be considered a step up and that is what fine womanhood stands for—the step up. Mrs. Cady told of the high moral standards in Iceland and after telling some incidents of her visit there and meeting with their girls, she urged the girls present to live the life of purity within, which will give to the face the glow of joy and the beauty of right living with God. In closing she said: "In the game of life God help you to win."

WILLOW. Willow, Nov. 5.—The ladies of the Work and Win Society will serve a roast pork supper in the Community Hall of the M. E. Church at Willow on Wednesday, November 11, from 6 to 8. The menu will include roast pork, dressing, mashed potatoes, cabbage salad, apple sauce, pumpkin and apple pie, and tea and coffee. The ladies hope to serve a number of their friends not only from Willow but from the surrounding towns.

STONE RIDGE. Stone Ridge, Nov. 5.—The conference of the Local Preachers' Association, which was held in the Methodist Church on Tuesday, November 3, was well supported.

The Builders' Class will hold a baked ham supper on Tuesday, November 17. There will also be a sale of useful and fancy articles. Miss Helen Faxon, who was operated upon for appendicitis in the Kingston City Hospital on Tuesday, 3, was well supported.

Orson Wood, who has been ill for several weeks, is now able to be out.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

FIRES FORECAST BY ACTUARIES

Experts Predict With Accuracy Where and When They Will Happen.

New York.—What type of fires to expect in selected months can be foretold with reasonable certainty by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The board has found that the arson curve reflects not only the ebb and flow of prosperity, but also, with varying regularity, the closing of the special seasons in certain commodities. A precise relation between incendiary fires and industrial seasons is known to exist.

With the approach of the Christmas season, the fur manufacturing trade concludes its brief "year," and as the cutting and sewing machines slow down, the number of conflagrations in these shops increases inordinately with other months.

Sudden increases in April. Some important sections of the garment trades season end in April, and from the middle of that month, underwriters assert, they may expect a sudden increase in calls for fire settlements. Similarly with the sporting goods manufacturing, and other industries whose period of output occupies only a portion of the calendar year.

A trade map of the country warns the insurance man where to expect sectional conflagrations of unusual frequency. This year they are said to center in New England, where the textile industry is below par, but the wave also has touched upstate New York, and in the last two years the finger pointed to Texas, then Georgia and to southern Illinois.

Some estimates lay as high as 40 per cent of the $500,000,000 annual fire loss to the hand of the "fire bug." His work is marked by death as well as destruction, for of the 15,000 people who perished in flames in the United States last year, many died in conflagrations of deliberate origin.

In William street, which is to insure what Wall street is to finance and Maiden Lane to gems, there is issued a monthly chart for the information of underwriters. It shows in parallel columns the fires which have occurred in various trades and the "business embarrassments" noted in the same industries.

"What fires are running now?" is a common inquiry of an insurance agent returning from a short vacation. "Clothing," or "leather goods," or "trimmings" may be the reply. Adjusters and investigators have been warned to scrutinize carefully reports in the trade which, for the time being at least, is known to be undergoing an extra hazard.

Weather Has Its Influences. Even the weather has a not inconsiderable influence on commercial fires. If summer fingers, throwing the fall trade sales behind, the fact is noted by the underwriters' loss committee: if the winter is unusually severe, a closer watch is kept on the spring trades, for straw hats and flimsy dress goods will be retarded on their way to market and the weaker elements of those trades may be plucked.

Unassimilated aliens often are the blazers of the arson trail. Underwriters hold it is type responsible for many devastating conflagrations. Although declared to be widespread arson is a difficult crime to prove, and many claims are settled that just failed to bring a criminal indictment.

Hair Bobbing Fad Gets to Japan Via Movies

Tokyo.—Modern ideas are breaking into the last stronghold of old custom in Japan, and Miss Geisha, whose slight body has been the bulwark of tradition, is longing for bobbed hair. So startling is this phenomenon to constituted authority that a police edict has been issued in Tokyo that any geisha who appears in public with her coiffure arranged in any but old style Japanese will forfeit her professional license.

The blame for the desire of the geishas is placed upon moving pictures. Outside geisha ranks girls are dispensing with old-style coiffures. Waitresses are smiling beneath hair smoothed high over huge "rats." In a style known as "harikara," a word adapted from the phrase "high collar," and signifying "in the latest mode," flappers in high schools are bobbing. Housewives have discovered the advantages of "buns" tucked in and fastened with hairpins.

Tosses Baby From Fire

Stoughton.—Tossed by his mother from the second-story window of their burning cottage to the outstretched arms of his father on the ground below, two-year-old Herbert Carney of 43 Emerson street, South Boston, was the only one to escape injuries when fire destroyed their summer home on the shore of Glen Echo lake, forcing seven vacationists to leap from upper windows.

Schools for Doughboys

New York.—Special preparatory schools for enlisted men of the army seeking appointment to West Point from the ranks will be established by Major General Charles P. Summerall at Fort Totten, L. I. and Madison barracks, near Watertown, N. Y.

Flapper Fad

The only remaining vestige of a he-man's wardrobe, gal-luses, has been appropriated by the up-to-date flapper, and it is said that devotees of the fad like the kind fancied by the fire fighters—red ones.

Annual Meeting Of Dairymen

Over 300,000 Dairy Farmers Represented With Total Annual Business of More Than $500,000,000—Dairymen's League and New England Milk Producers Important Members.

The national organization of dairymen known as the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation will hold its ninth annual meeting in Philadelphia on November 24-25. In addition to a regular program of work these representatives of 300,000 dairymen scattered from Maine to California will listen to addresses by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Governor Plachot of Pennsylvania.

This organization is the largest and most active organization of real dairy farmers in the world. The Dairymen's League Cooperative Association represents the largest single group in the federation. Vice President J. D. Miller of the league is president of the national organization and G. W. Slocum, president of the league, is one of its directors. Some of the other milk producers' associations that belong to the federation are the New England Milk Producers' Association, whose general manager, Richard Hutton, is first vice president of the national organization, the Interstate Milk Producers' Association, with headquarters at Philadelphia, Twin City Milk Producers' Association, with headquarters at St. Paul, Minnesota, Connecticut Milk Producers' Association, with headquarters at Hartford, Conn., San Diego County Milk Producers' Association in California and the Farmers' Milk Producers' Association of Virginia. There are in all 28 producers' cooperatives in almost as many states that make up the membership of the national federation.

During the last nine years the Federation has grown steadily in membership and influence and it is claimed it now represents practically all the important cooperative organizations of dairy farmers marketing either fluid milk or milk products in the country. The total annual business done by the 300,000 dairymen in the Federation amounts to more than $500,000,000 or about one-fifth of the entire value of the dairy products in the United States. The Federation is not a trading organization but is a protective body and a clearing house of information for its member associations. During the past year the Federation has been active in federal legislation. It is credited with the present existing tariff on butter and cream, with the defeat of the Capper-Haugen bill last winter and with several other matters directly in the best interests of organized farmers.

Sheffield Farms Sale.
Judging from reports league farmers are not particularly disturbed over the reported sale of the Sheffield Farms Company to the National Dairy Products Corporation. "The Dairymen's League News in its issue of November 6 referring to this great merger of milk interests says, 'There is nothing strange in the news of this merger. Such giant combinations of capital have been common in other industries for some time but so far as we know this is the first great merger of capital in the milk industry. Without question this move is the most important and far reaching change that has ever taken place in the New York section of the milk industry.'"

Looking Up in the World
The last we saw of the Fiji Islanders was a black form disappearing into the underbrush with a shirt tail flapping in the breeze. This was back in the days when we studied geography, and in our day dreaming of roving about the world the Fiji Islanders were one place we did not want to be shipwrecked on. The Islanders liked their stinks done too rare. But how the world changes! Here we read that the Fiji Islanders want a Rotary club. We hope the Fijians have not misinterpreted Rotary's slogan: "He profits most who serves best."—Milwaukee Journal.

Colorful Finnish Markets
In brilliant skirt and smock the Finnish fishwife is the most vivid of the colorful throng at the daily market. While the Finns are fishing, the wives bring the catch to the market. It is especially exciting when the autumn sailing fleet comes in to sell provisions for the winter and again on the day when the ice breaks up in the spring and the first vessel of the year comes into the quays. The Helsinki fish housewife usually comes to market and does her own purchasing of vegetables and meat and rarely leaves without the inevitable handful of bright, hardy flowers.

Resinol
will soothe that itching skin

The first application of Resinol usually takes the itch and burn right out of eczema and similar skin-affections. This gentle, healing ointment seems to get right at the root of the trouble, removing the skin's deadness in a surprisingly short time. Resinol is sold by all druggists.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE NORTH AMERICAN SNAIK.

The snark is probably the most wary beast found on this continent, for there is no record of one ever having been seen. They live in unsurveyed portions of the Sierra Nevada range and spend their time chasing packrats out of their holes and stealing their packs. The snark is very fond of toothpaste and simply cries for castoria, but usually has to be contented with what it can pick up in the way of discarded Ford tires and burnt out bearings.

This individual is sniffing suspiciously at a footprint of a packrat.

He has an almond head fastened to a single peanut body with chewing gum. The ears are popcorn, the tail is a clove, and the feet are split navy beans. The legs can be toothpicks, or anything like them.

Great Lawyer's Small Fee

A famous London barrister, whose fee amount to something like $100,000 a year, recently conducted a long and difficult case for a remuneration of less than 20 cents a day. This was in accordance with an old English custom by which any undefended prisoner is entitled on his appearance in the dock to select any one of the barristers in court to conduct his case.

A Weak Run Down Condition
Is Your Danger Point

If you are weak, nervous, have poor blood, under weight, and no ambition. Take warning and don't delay. Many serious diseases and operations derive from this condition. Just use common sense or stop and think Iron makes Blood, extract of Cod Liver Oil builds Tissues. Nux Vomica stimulates the nervous system, manganese dioxide has been employed in various skin diseases, berberine sulphate a tonic which increases the intestinal secretion and promotes the flow of bile, ginger a stimulant with any tonic, aloes a tonic and laxative.

All these ingredients are compounded in Burke's Extract of Cod Liver Oil and Iron Compound Tablets, very easy and pleasant to take. Any druggist will sell you six boxes for $5.00—fifteen weeks' treatment under a guarantee to benefit you or refund your money. ## Animal to Be Envied

Is the Hippopotamus

An unnamed explorer is quoted in the Berliner Tageblatt as speculating on the relative happiness of men and hippopotamuses. Other animals, it appears, have their troubles.

"Many a believer in the transmigration of souls might like to be a magnificent bird of paradise fluttering from twig to twig in the tropic heavens when he returns to earth," he says. "But oh, how soon he would find himself in somebody's roaster or adorning the Sunday-go-to-meeting hat of some far provincial lady!"

"The great wild beasts, though they live in glorious freedom, suffer. Lions, leopards, tigers, elephants, eagles, have a hard life and a constant search for food, and many of them are destined for the lead of the human—or inhuman—hunter's rifle. Let us say nothing of the slavery of domestic animals, which are eaten in return for their services to men."

"There is only one free and fortunate beast, whom man leaves in peace because his skin is useless, his flesh repulsive, and hunting him dangerous. That is the hippo. He can spend his life in philosophic calm, live it out to the end, and grow to be a couple of centuries old—so at least learned men say."—Living Age.

Electricity the Cause of Auroral Displays

Aurora Borealis, Northern Lights or Streamers, Aurora Polaris and Australis, and Polar Light are the different names given to an electrical meteor, appearing most frequently in high latitudes in the form of luminous clouds, arches and rays, the latter sometimes meeting at a point near the zenith, forming what is called a "boreal crown." The generally accepted theory is that the aurora is due to the descent of positive electricity from the intertropical water surfaces, which flow toward the poles. In the polar regions it descends toward the earth and comes in contact with the terrestrial negative electricity, which results in luminous discharges of great brilliancy. Intimate relations exist between sun spots, magnetic storms and auroras, the appearance of a large spot on the solar disk being almost invariably accompanied by a magnetic storm in all parts of the globe. During magnetic storms auroral displays usually take place, but not all auroras are coincident with magnetic disturbances.

Uninviting "Lunch"

A Columbus business woman, who also is a homemaker, occasionally takes to her office a lunch prepared at home. One morning recently, following a chicken dinner the evening before she took from the refrigerator what was left of the roast, with which she prepared an appetizing lunch. Bones, peeders and other debris were placed in a neat package, to be taken to the garbage box, and the lunch also was carefully wrapped. When she opened her lunch package at noon, however, she found she had brought with her the package intended for the garbage can, and had tossed her lunch into the receptacle.—Indianapolis News.

Pie crust made with Snowdrift is rich, tender and flaky.

Good pie crust should be put together quickly and should not be overworked. That is one reason why Snowdrift makes such good pastry. It is so creamy that it is quickly and easily worked into the other ingredients.

NOT CONVENTIONAL AT CHURCH SERVICE

French and Belgians Differ From English.

The French, because they are formal, have more religious style than the Belgians, but considerably less than the English. There is too much thrusting of money boxes under one's nose in Brussels, and I was terribly disturbed by hearing the jingling of coins almost at the moment of elevation.

In France there is still style in the faith. The money boxes are there, too, and must of necessity be there, for the churches have no endowments, but the collecting is more decently done, although I could wish that the collectors would not give sibilant thanks to each person who contributes. When a man surrenders himself to the mysteries, he dislikes to hear a persistent hissing, "Merci bien," making a monotonous chorus to his prayers.

One must be on his guard against the habit of assuming that a thing is wrong because it is unusual or different from what he is accustomed to, and I acknowledge freely that I find the French on easier and, I think, happier terms with their faith than the English are with theirs. St. John Ervine writes, in the London Observer, behavior which would seem irreverent in St. Paul's or in Westminster cathedral is perfectly respectful in Notre Dame or the Madeleine, because the Frenchman, oddly enough, is more individual in his religious expression than the Englishman.

We are very individual about the foundations of faith, but very conventional and corporate about the ritual of it. In a Devonshire village well known to me there are four different sects flourishing among a population of just over a thousand people, ranging from the established church to the Plymouth Brethren. There's individuality for you, and refusal to submit to priestly domination! But inside that great and indubitable individualism there is an equally indubitable convention that the services, however dissimilar they may be from each other, shall resemble in this, that they shall be done with solemnity and in a corporate manner.

The Frenchman cares less for this ritualism and organized devotion than we do. He makes his private profession of thanks to the Almighty in complete disregard of any general service that may be proceeding when he enters the church. He has no sense of horror at being "late for church." No one ever hears in a French home the dreadful exclamation, "There, the bell's stopped!"

No Frenchman ever turned away from the church door or crept into an obscure seat because the equivalent of "I will arise and go to my Father" had begun before he could reach his accustomed place. For him, the service begins precisely at the moment when he enters the church and ends precisely at the moment when he leaves it. His business is with God, not with the community.

It is somewhat disconcerting to those who have been brought up in the English tradition of churchgoing to observe French men and women drifting in and out of church during a service, but the imagination, when it is used, quickly informs us that there is devotion in these apparent drifters, and that their business with God is not carelessly conducted.

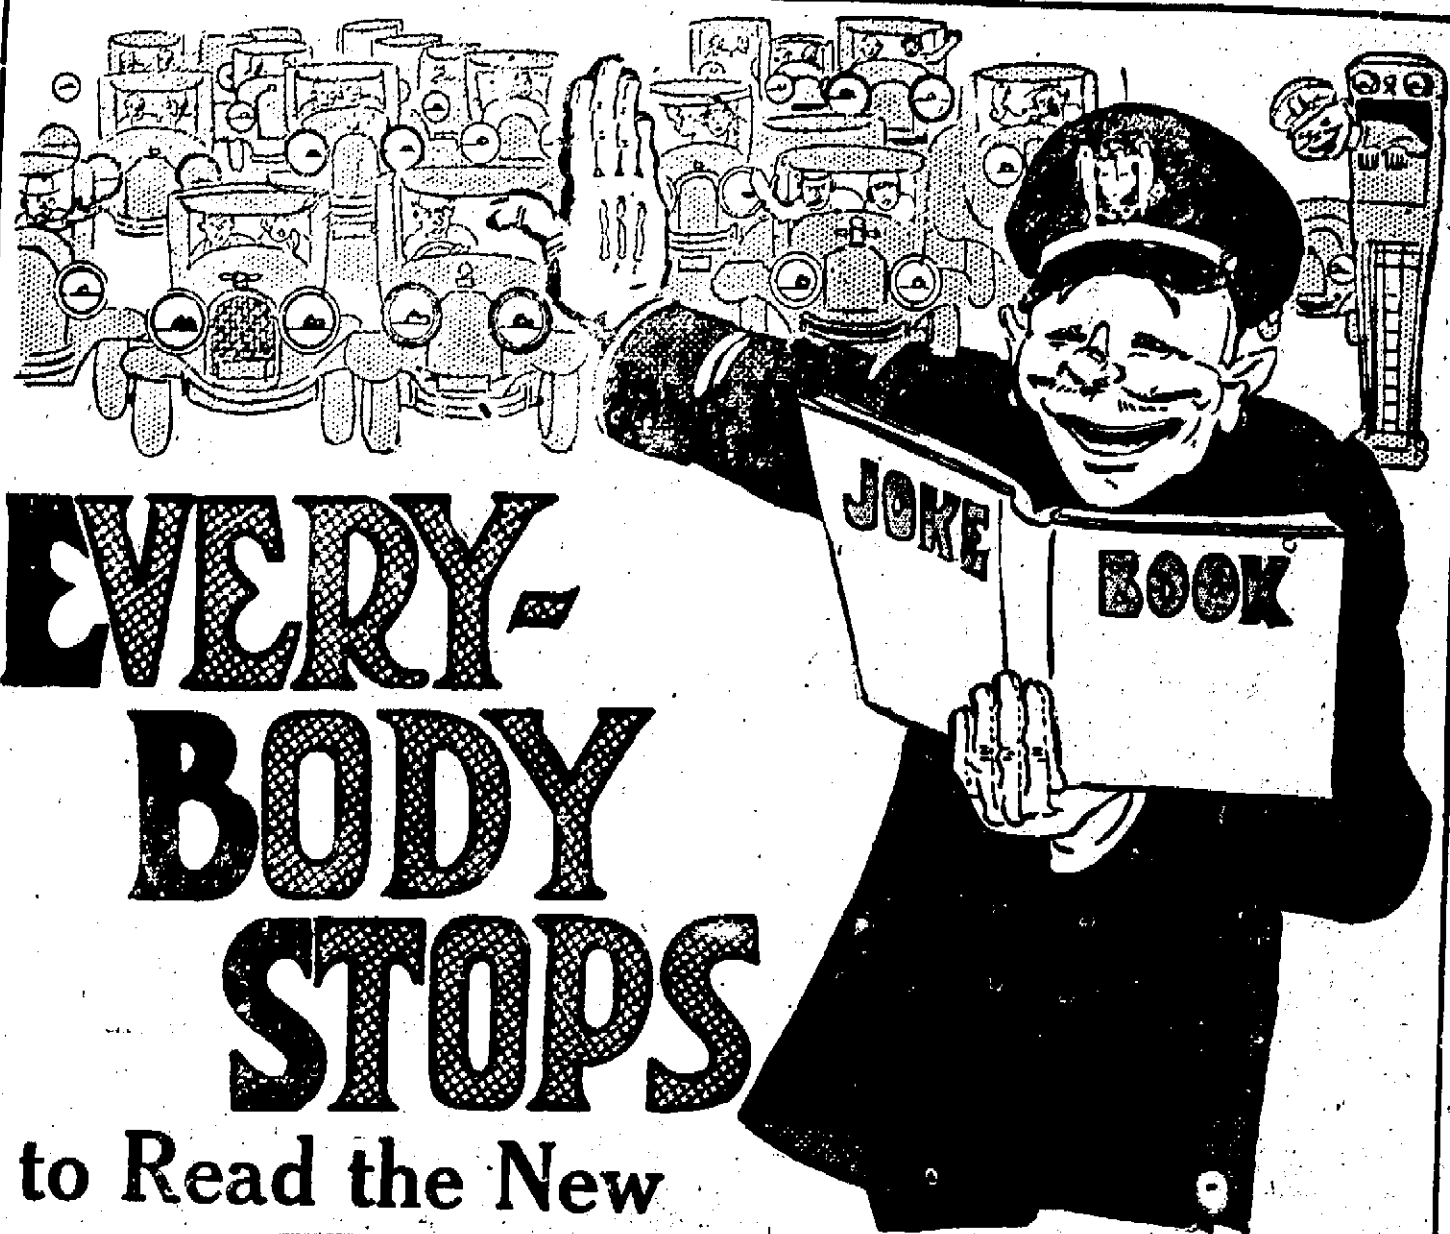

One is told that France is atheistic and faithless, but I doubt if there are many complaints there, such as we hear in England, of empty churches.

Bachelors Accounted For

That's what a man wants in a wife: he wants to make sure of one fool who'll tell him he's wise. But there's some men can do without that—they think so much of themselves already—and that's how it is there's old bachelors.—George Eliot.

Increase Your Weight In Thirty Days

Ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar-coated and as pleasant to take as candy. Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days. One thin woman gained 15 pounds in six weeks. Be sure and ask for McCoy's the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—50 tablets—50 cents.

Angle Marconi Overlooked.

Randall Cathcart, fourteen-year-old California boy, trying to tune in recently discovered, he said, that airmen may be dispensed with, the human body answering the purpose. His aerial was broken and by chance his hand touched the aerial binding post. Then, he said, he heard the program.

Early Hospitals Were Refuges for Pilgrims

The word hospital is from the Latin, "hospes," a guest. From the same source comes host, one who entertains; hospital, the entertainment given; and hospitalier, the keeper of the house. The hospital of the Middle Ages was originally an inn or house of entertainment for pilgrims, in process of time these places of entertainment were resorted to by the sick and infirm only, and the house of entertainment became an asylum for the sick and wounded.

The name hospital was first applied to those whose duty it was to provide "hospitium," lodging and entertainment for pilgrims. The most noted institution of the kind during the Middle Ages was at Jerusalem, which gave its name to an order called the Knights Hospitallers. This order was also called Knights of St. John at Jerusalem. Afterward they were called the Knights of Rhodes, and then Knights of Malta, because the islands of Rhodes and Malta were conferred upon them by different monarchs.

Record Short Trial

The suggestion recently made at the British prison congress for double trials, in order to expedite the work of the law courts, has recalled the dispatch with which cases were handled in the eighteenth century at the Old Bailey. The shortest trial on record is supposed to have been one in which a man was sentenced to seven years' transportation for picking a pocket of a handkerchief on Ludgate Hill. The summing up was: "Gentlemen, I suppose you have no doubt I have done." The passing of the sentence was: "Seven years, we have not before: we shall not meet again for some time." The whole proceedings occupied two minutes fifty-three seconds.

Mr. Grimm's Wisdom

"We are often warned, with uplifted hands and rolling eyes, against the temptations of the city," said old Gaudion Grimm, addressing his pious nephew who was about to pay the big buzz a visit. "But I have noticed that the temptations that beset us are more in the man than in the place. If a fellow is determined to be ornery he can get into trouble right here at home, while if he is set upon minding his own business he can go pretty nearly anywhere without having the gent with the horns run out and grab him. A man who isn't fighting for temptation rarely has it thrust upon him, while if you are seeking it you can find it even if you are glued down to a flat rock in the midst of a great desert."—Kansas City Star.

Panic Reported In Damascus

Business Men Close Shops and Citizens Strive to Flee From City—French Reinforcements Arrive and Are Ready For Battle.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Jerusalem, Nov. 6.—Syrian rebels, steadily gaining in numbers are now encamped eight miles outside of the city walls of Damascus, according to reports received here.

Panic is reported to prevail in Damascus, with business men closing their shops and citizens striving to flee from the city.

French reinforcements have arrived from Morocco and General Gamelin's troops are understood to have set forth to engage the rebels. It is reported that during yesterday there was sharp fighting on the outskirts of Damascus.

The French have urged the population of Damascus to remain calm, but have warned them that it may be necessary to throw shells over the city.

Rebels have cut the telephone and telegraph wires leading into Damascus and train service between Damascus and Hama has been suspended, owing to the depredations of the insurgents.

French forces have been dispatched to attack rebel bands operating between Damascus and Beirut, where there has been fierce fighting. The tide of the battle is not known but it is understood that the rebels inflicted severe casualties upon the French.

The rebels have declared their independence throughout all Syria.

Indians and Game Laws

Indians cannot as a rule kill game out of season except as specified in a special treaty governing the particular tribe to which an individual belongs. There are between 20 and 30 of these treaties drawn up for the various tribes in this country. Under no circumstances, however, is an Indian permitted to violate the federal migratory bird treaty, and any provision made in a special treaty is revoked by the federal act. Indians, however, are allowed the privileges of fishing.

K. H. S. Alumni Eleven Will Battle With the St. Stephen's Varsity Team at the Fair Grounds on Thanksgiving Day.

This season will be the first time in many years that the K. H. S. team has not played at home on Thanksgiving Day. But this season Kingston football fans will have a wonderful treat to look forward to on this day—a real college match.

The Alumni team which beat the K. H. S. Varsity early in the season, 46 to 0, has secured an opponent of their own calibre for the St. Stephen College Varsity, led by the famous Indian, Pete Delorie, will perform at the Athletic Field or Fair Grounds against the alumni forces on "Turkey Day."

"Bill" O'Reilly, captain and manager, has been negotiating to bring a professional team to Kingston, but has finally decided to line up his teammates against Coach Bray's strong eleven this coming holiday.

The locals have been forced to pay the collegians an enormous guarantee to bring them to Kingston, but the Kingston fans are expected to back up this big match in Kingston. Thanksgiving Day afternoon. The Alumni outfit will have an enormous task on their hands to trim the Saints for Coach Bray has developed a strong eleven this season.

The eleven is led by Pete Delorie, a full blooded Sioux Indian, who has turned out to be the collegian's outstanding triple threat man this season.

The Alumni outfit have also a man-sized gridiron team and will use practically the same lineup as used against the K. H. S. team. Vince Rice and "Hanna" Bradley will play the ends with McLane and "Big Bill" O'Reilly at the tackle posts. Leonard O'Reilly and Ed. Messinger will be at the guard positions. ### Tobacco Once Banned

It was recently announced that the government of Tibet had placed a ban on the introduction of tobacco into the country. But regulation and prohibition of the use of the narcotic is by the law of the land is by no means new, says the Dearborn Independent.

The following is taken from the book of Method, Norfolk, England, dated October 4, 1605. "We agree that any person that is taken smoking tobacco in the street shall forfeit one shilling every time so taken and it shall be lawful for the petty constables to distrain for the same to be put to the uses of the town."

A few pages further there is the record of the first arrest under the tobacco prohibition law. "We present Nicholas Barber for smoking in the street and do amerce him one shilling."

SPOUTS RICHES FOR TEXAS "U"

Oil Piling Up Income as New Wells Are Brought In.

Austin, Tex.—The "oilman's graveyard" is being turned into wealth for the University of Texas. And it's coming so fast the university may acquire more royalty money than it can spend in the immediate future.

At any rate it can't be spent until the legality of the legislative enactment turning the revenue into the available fund from the permanent fund, as provided by the constitution, is determined. And the attorney general of the state has repeatedly ruled it was illegal.

But whether it happens one way or another, there will shortly be such a fund that interest therefrom, which does go to the available fund, will more than carry on the most ambitious building program ever launched by any university. In fact, prospects today point to the University of Texas as one of the richest, if not the richest, school in the world.

It is as if the university, like an impoverished orphan, had come to the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, which in this instance happened to be on university land in Reagan county, Texas. There on May 28, 1923, a rank wildcat well spouted oil. With that there was born the greatest potential oil field in the United States simultaneously with the greatest university in the same vast territory.

In midst of big holdings. For that well, known as the Santa Rita, belonged to the Texas Oil and Land company and was in the midst of 64 sections on university land, only a small fraction of university holdings, 2,080,000 acres in west Texas counties. And that lonesome wildcat, in a territory which had already known 54 deep dry holes before it was started, was the forerunner of a drilling campaign destined to test out the thousands of acres of university holdings, and which, in fact, has already discovered another mineral resource, potash, with indications that it may be far more valuable than the oil which is pouring a stream of gold into the coffers of the educational institution.

But only recently has the significance of oil on university land dawned on the patrons of the school, which in attendance compares with some of the larger institutions of higher learning, but which, in the terms of Gov. Miriam Ferguson, is an "eyesore" to the people of the state. Plain frame buildings, unpainted, 20 of them, grace the university campus, poor setting, indeed, for the gaining of an education, and sufficient only to draw the op probious comment of a woman executive.

Checks approximating $100,000 a month, tendered the first of each month for the one preceding, coming from a field whose production is on a gradual rise, and that, too, from an area confined to about three sections, serve to indicate the magnitude of potentialities as affecting Texas' state school. And with 24 producers already, development has only just begun.

The Texas Oil and Land company, discoverer of the field, and its subsidiaries, together with the Big Lake Oil and Land company, have recently announced a drilling program destined to put 32 new wells in the proven area, in addition to a score more now drilling and destined to be producers shortly.

Output on Increase.

Two producers for the field recently have been brought in twice in a single day and output has been on the jump since the first of the year. For a long time it stood steadily at around 10,000 barrels. Then came a pipe line and contracts for the delivery of more than 500,000 barrels of oil to one of the major companies by freight. From then on it has been one continual jump after another until today production aggregates more than 40,000 barrels.

One-eighth royalty at prevailing prices means that from henceforth until the peak is attained, the university's part of the oil revenue will be greater than $100,000 a month, possibly $200,000 or more, and that multiplied by twelve means more than $1,000,000 a year. Even should that go to the permanent fund, which would permit only of expenditure of interest in school overhead, as required by a building program, the old campus at Austin is due for a change. At once there is a prospect of a great state-supported school being independent of legislative appropriations and free of the usual fight most such schools must wage before the legislatures to get funds required.

A comparatively poor school, like some comparatively poor people, suddenly grown wealthy, the university has opportunity to spend its money with lavish abandon or to hide its time. This question may get in the courts, but it will only be a friendly action to determine the legality of expending the money at once. This test will come as the result of the legislature taking action turning royalty revenues from the permanent to the available fund. Giving sanction to this measure, after the attorney general had advised its illegality, Mrs. Ferguson cited an unkempt campus as being an "eyesore" in which the state could take no pride, and gave her approval anyway.

Land Called Worthless.

At one time, a history of the university reveals, sentiment was for the sale of the "worthless" university lands and the placing of the money out at prevailing rates of interest. Maj. George Littlefield raised his voice against the proposal, and in desperation requested geologists to bring back a reason against its sale. Accordingly, they found one—the Marathon "fold"—which they declare should be productive of much oil.

Whether that fold exists only on paper as some contend, or not—it is ample reason for holding the properties. The geologist who turned in the favorable report was Dr. J. A. Udden, director of the bureau of economic geology of the university. His findings, sufficient to prevent the legislature taking action making possible the sale, have also furnished the basis for other geological work and finally led to the discovery of oil.

The other geologist involved in the development of the university holdings is Hugh H. Tucker. Half a score years ago, practically unknown in his profession, he chanced to stroll about the University of Texas campus, then rested on a bench. A previous letter about the grounds had left there a map of Texas, showing the university properties. Studying this, Tucker got his cue and the determination to "go to west Texas and conquer the territory for the University of Texas." Loyal to the state, those selfsame shackles that Mrs. Ferguson called a shame to Texas furnished him with inspiration to see the campus changed to one in keeping with the greatness of Texas.

Tucker spent practically 15 years in studying the formation between the Pecos and the Colorado rivers. Traversing the distance 14 times on foot, and parts of it innumerable times, he is conceded to have gained a more accurate knowledge of the topography and geological structure of the land than any other person. It was on his findings that the drill pierced to the oil formations in the discovery well, and it is on his information that the drill is now boring its way to the bowels of the earth on yet other school lands and outside holdings.

He has transformed a land as well as possibilities for a school. For he recalls that when he first stood on a hill where now the discovery well of the Reagan field still is producing oil, all he could see was two lone windmills. Today, in that same area, hundreds of people congregate, taking wealth from the soil, some for private gain, but contributing withal to the buildings of a greater university.—New York World.

3 Lines Tell of Heroic Rescue of 22 at Sea

New Orleans.—Capt. Robert Laird of the Honduran steamship Atlantida, is a man of few words.

In logging the rescue of a crew from an American vessel in distress, Captain Laird noted the incident thus: "Much lightning, 8 a. m. Sighted Timpson in distress, 2 p. m. Rescued. Crude oil to quiet waves."

Captain Laird sailed from his New Orleans home wearing a watch bearing the inscription: "From the President of the United States to Robert Laird, master of the Honduran steamship, Atlantida, in recognition of his humane service in effecting the rescue at sea on October 18, 1924, of the master and crew of the American motorship, James Timpson."

John R. Kennedy, second officer and Lionel Buckley, wireless operator, were presented with binoculars, and medals will be presented to three members of the crew who manned the small boat, with Kennedy and Buckley, in which 22 members of the crew of the Timpson were transported through hurricane seas from their crippled ship to the Atlantida.

Playground and Recreation Association of America and has the strong backing of numerous great business organizations of New York city, including the Guaranty Trust Company, Standard Oil Company, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Lord & Taylor, R. H. Macy & Co., and other equally well known corporations. Waldo Amos, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, is chairman of the advisory committee of the bureau.

More than a thousand resorts have been investigated by the bureau's representatives. They are along the Jersey shore, in the Adirondacks, Berkshire, Catskill and Pocono Mountains, on Long Island, in the southern counties of New York state, in the Litchfield Hills and shore sections of Connecticut, and the Cape Cod and Nantucket portions of Massachusetts.

The bureau's primary object is to make available reliable information on vacation places in the vicinity of New York to employees of the business houses of the city. The points covered by the questionnaire on hotels, boarding houses, farms and camps includes rates by the day and week, character of clientele capacity, facilities, condition of the premises, amusements, the respective rail routes, together with running time and fares, quality of food, service, and moral environment. A feature of the guide is a map dividing the territory adjacent to New York city into six zones and giving minimum sound trip fares for each zone. All the resort towns which have been investigated by the bureau are marked on the map. The book is being enlarged and revised for use early next spring. It is to be found in the libraries and rest rooms of the business houses and other organizations that are cooperating in the plan. The vacationists make all their arrangements direct with the resorts after consulting the guide, as the bureau is still engaged in making its investigations and is not yet prepared to give personal service in the selection of vacation places and the solution of other vacation problems.

The inclusion of local resorts in this guide will help to advertise their attractions and is expected to bring increased travel and business to this community.

Mr. Amos is chairman of the advisory committee. Other members of the committee are: A. T. Bell, director of Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City; Henry Bruere, third vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; A. S. Donahoe, assistant general manager of R. H. Macy & Co.; C. R. Dooley, manager of Personnel and Training of the Standard Oil Company; Frank S. Hackett, headmaster of the Riverdale Country School, N. Y. Pringle, passenger traffic manager of the Lehigh Valley Railroad; Senator Ellwood M. Rabenold; Miss Anne Seymour, director of welfare, Lord & Taylor; Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, director of the College of Home Economics of Cornell University; William Van Wert, assistant vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company; and Dr. A. W. Whittey, chairman of the National Safety Council. George A. Meade is director of the service.

Important Grid Games Saturday

Harvard-Princeton Game Tops the List in the East—Western Conference Title May Be Decided When Michigan Plays North Western—Other Contests.

(By Davis J. Walsh.) By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 6.—Now happens to be the approximate time for all good, self-respecting heroes to come to the aid of that dear alma mater. Now is the time when a blocked punt means triumph or tragedy or both. Now for some football games that can be referred to as important, speaking in a large and spacious way.

We will have many in the east tomorrow afternoon and all of them are good. The Harvard-Princeton affair topping the list for no other reason than the fact that it is Harvard and Princeton that are obliging.

The western conference title, however, may be decided when Michigan, which looks like the best team in the country, plays North Western. Iowa takes on Wisconsin, another big game. At the same time, Chicago's conference record may be turned wrong side out with the Maroon team facing a 100 per cent better Illinois team than the early season showed. Ohio State meets Indiana in another conference game but nobody cares—except Ohio State and Indiana.

A defeat for either Michigan or Iowa which is unlikely, would just about wash up the entire conference situation. A defeat for a victory for both would leave the proposition as is.

A bit further to the west, the unbeaten Missouri team seems due to take something of a "breather" against Washington University at St. Louis but the rest of the valley will get ample exercise, Drake meeting Nebraska, Ames playing Grinnell and Oklahoma stepping out with Kansas.

On the coast the action will not be so formal. Likewise in the south. In the former section, California, Stanford and Washington, the three leaders, will deploy into service the Stanford-Washington game heading ab others. One of the other must lose its chance for the title, having a tie, in which case California would benefit. The Bears play Washington State and everything should be to the subconscious, or something. Idaho and Montana also are due to take violent issue.

From the standpoint of national interest, the big number of the southern schedule is found in the meeting of Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech. Both have finished second in previous games and Alabama, which is to play Kentucky, remains unbeaten unbeaten in southern football; yet the glimmer abides with the other pair. In a lesser sense, so does it follow Seawance and Mississippi and Tulane and Louisiana Poly.

In spite of the first of the big three series at Princeton, the Eastern schedule for the day is not such a much. Yale, Brown, Pennsylvania, Colgate, Carnegie Tech, Lafayette and the Army and Navy taking "breathers." The Cornell-Dartmouth, Penn State-Notre Dame and Pittsburgh-W. and J. games are the only ones worthy of particular mention.

There are plenty of "neighborhood" championships on, however, in fact, this condition might be said to be general. Some of the more obvious types are Pitt-W. and J., Ames-Grinnell, Columbia-N. Y. U., Texas-Baylor, Ohio-Marquette, Arizona-New Mexico, Tulane-Louisiana Poly, Wesleyan-Williams Washington and Lee-Virginia, Union-Hobart, Maine-Bowdoin, Swarthmore-Ursinus Gettysburg, Dickinson and Muhlenberg-F and M.

Boston College, one of the east's unbeaten eleven, has picked up a live one and may not look so good at the end of the West Virginia game. Holy Cross and Fordham, meantime, will try to achieve the elimination of one or the other from the Catholic college championship.

Intersectional football being on the wane, there are only two games of this type worthy of mention. Notre Dame vs. Penn State and Syracuse vs. Ohio Wesleyan. We fear the worst for Pennsylvania State and Ohio Wesleyan.

Heilmann Basketball President.

First Game at Epworth Hall

First game of basketball for the season will be played in Epworth Hall Saturday evening at 8 o'clock between the Clinton Avenue Seniors, pennant winners of last year's Sunday School League, and the fast Senators. Coach Rodney Chipp has a very strong team and they expect to land the pennant again this year. The Senators are also a fast team and a very lively game is expected. Timekeeper Ira Britt will again hold the watch as he did at last year's games in Epworth Hall. Admission to the game is free. A silver offering will be received at the door to pay expenses of light and heat.

New Johnson.

Out of the frozen North to Oakland, Cal., went Steve Chekaluk, full blooded Eskimo, seeking adventure. He found it through the medium of a ball and glove. And now "Red" Killifer, manager of the Seattle club, believes he has a pitching star.

FISHER OF HARVARD MAKES NO PREDICTIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 6.—Quietly confident that it would make a better showing than the critics believed possible, the Harvard varsity football squad prepared to leave New York this morning at 9:30 o'clock for Princeton where tomorrow it will meet the Tiger in the first of the Big Three series. There was more than eighty men in the party, including coaches, trainers and attendants. "We are making no predictions except that Harvard will play good hard football tomorrow," declared Coach Bob Fisher. "The Tigers seem to have something on us but we are going into the game imbued with but one idea. To make Princeton play its head off to win."

Practice Game at St. Mary's.

Tonight at St. Mary's Hall there will be a practice game between the Holy Name Team of Wilbur and St. Mary's Junior Team. The teams will line up about the same as last year, with Joyce, Lang, Mooney, Gilday and Clair for the Saints and Fielder, McCordie, Black, Dougherty and Lynch of the Holy Name team. In addition to this each team will have men trying out for positions.

Jarvis Meets Dencio.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 6.—Ernie Jarvis, highly rated British flyweight, will tonight meet young Dencio, of the Philippines, successor to the late Pancho Villa, in a ten round bout.

DE PINEDO MAKES NEW WORLD'S FLYING RECORD.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Taranto, Italy, Nov. 6.—Commander De Pinedo left here today at 8:05 a. m. in a heavy fog on the last leg of his flight from Rome to Tokyo and return.

De Pinedo will land at Naples today but if conditions are favorable he will push on to Rome.

Commander De Pinedo's flight constitutes a unique record in aviation history, which is claimed to be a world's record. He has flown 24,370 miles, which is 6,400 miles more than the distance covered by the American "round the world" flyer, De Pinedo flew alone and had but little in the way of an organization to aid him on his flight.

"I made a desperate effort to reach Italy for the November four celebration," Commander De Pinedo told International News Service, "but a storm in the Persian Gulf prevented me. I have been over-strained during the last two days for I have flown 2,950 miles and have only slept two or three hours."

"I had a wonderful flight back from Tokyo and during the entire flight didn't even change my position or make any wing adjustments."

"Everywhere along my route I have received aid and courtesies from the people and I am most grateful."
